Contemporary luxury in February's Watch Sale

Hot on the heels of January's success, the February Watch Sale looks to attract a very different crowd. If the highlights of January's watch sale were mostly rare vintage tool watches. February's focus shifts to contemporary luxury.

The Fellows Watch Sales regularly see strong offerings from Rolex and this month's auction is no different. With over 70 lots featuring pieces from the Swiss watchmaker, there is certainly plenty to tempt the Rolex enthusiast. A sure highlight from the auction is lot 245, a Rolex Pearlmaster which is entered into sale with an estimate of £8,000 - 12,000 (plus 24% buyer's premium VAT included).

Following on from the popularity of Cartier pieces in the January Watch Sale it comes as no surprise that one of the sale highlights from February's auction is lot 67. This Cartier Baignoire features an 18ct white gold case and diamond set bezel. It will be offered for sale with a guide price of £2,800 - 3,600 (plus 24% buyer's premium VAT included).

From Patek Philippe there is an Aquanaut Travel Time entered into this auction as lot 209. A great piece for those who enjoy seeing how a watch work, this time piece has an exhibition case back. Lot 209 carries a guide price of £16,000 - 20,000 (plus 24% buyer's premium VAT included).

Other highlights from this sale include a Jaeger-LeCoultre white gold Duometer; a rose gold Blancpain GMT Reveil; a white gold IWC Portuguese Perpetual Calendar and the front cover lot, a platinum Vacheron Constantin Patrimony Skeleton Perpetual Calendar.

The Vacheron Constantin Patrimony Skeleton Perpetual Calendar has been described as finest, simple perpetual calendar watch money can buy and it is easy to see why.
